IT RAINED OIL ON ALTONA

Altona residents within a half square mile of the Petroleum Refineries of Australia plant at the corner of Millers and Koroit Creek Roads had an unexpected "chore" over the weekend.

They had to get up early on Sunday morning to clean houses, cars and washing which were blackened by a shower of atomised oil late on Saturday.

Altona councillor Pat Lynch said yesterday he had 15 phone calls with complaints from residents concerning the oil damage.

Cr. Lynch said that as far as he could ascertain it was purely and simply an accident and PRA officials were doing everything they could to compensate residents.

The shower came after a tank burst, discharging oil into the atmosphere.

A company spokesman said the incident occurred after a sudden release of vapor from a tank.

The oil fell in tiny droplets over a half square mile. It fouled roofs, windows and cars.

Representatives from the company, who toured the area, offered to clean up cars and assess the more serious damage.

The spokesman said everything possible would be done to compensate residents.

A million-to-one shot came home

Everyone at Al-dinner dance last tona Hospital's Friday thought Colin Cruickshank was kidding when he walked up to accept his fourth prize of the evening.

The odds of it happening were probably a million-to-one.

Earlier in the evening he had won the hospital's monster Christmas stocking raffle and both men's prizes in the barn dance.

And to top it off Colin and wife Maureen were celebrating their fifth wedding anniversary.

So it was champagne and fell on the footpath without breaking.

"I'm only glad there were 90 people there, otherwise no one would have believed me," he said yesterday.

An office manager with Australian Carbon Black, Colin lives with his wife and two children, Paul 4, and Stephen 2, at 35 Dove Street, Altona.

It was his first win of a major raffle — the stocking is valued at $150 — but he admitted he has since bought three Tatts tickets.

Of the 4500 tickets sold Colin had $2 worth so he wasn't a complete outsider. And his luck didn't desert him after he received his prize.

A bottle of champagne in the stocking rolled out

Hospital women's auxiliary president Mrs. R. Verlander presented a cheque for $900 — to be used for hospital extensions — to hospital board of management president (Mr. Bob Stringer) at the dinner dance.

Mrs. Verlander said over the weekend she would like to thank all business people for their generous donations in filling the monster stocking, and all local people for their support of the raffle.

NOISE FROM APC COMPRESSOR

"If we were to observe a minute's silence the noise emanating from the Altona Petrochemical Company could be heard in this council chamber now," Cr. Les Crofts said at the last council meeting.

'Complaints justified', says councillor

He said that the council had had an on-site inspection of the plant that day and had received a letter from the company explaining the reason — the start-up of a main gas compressor.

Cr. Crofts said he was "bewildered" as to what course to take.

"Before I left to come to this meeting I had a person ring me with a complaint about the unbearable noise in the early hours of the morning. This noise has continued today."

"We've had several other complaints and everyone is justified."

Cr. Crofts said it was a difficult problem but he did not know whether anything the council did would solve it.

Regarding the question of granting the APC a further 28-day extension for its planned programme of work, Cr. Crofts said from reports submitted to the council the company's operations were progressing according to schedule.

On his motion the 28-day extension was granted.

Later under all other business Cr. Pat Lynch moved that the APC be informed the present level of noise emanating from the plant must stop. This motion was also successfully carried after being seconded by Cr. Charlie Carlsson.

At the climax of the function, the club's oldest member Mrs. Fonteneau, 89, received a sheaf of flowers from the club president, Mrs. Edwards.

Special guests were the St. Paul's Band, tenor Mr. Carl Van Bie, scottish singer James Striker and a number of girls from St. Joseph's, who also entertained.

Another participant who gave the crowd a laugh was ventriloquist Mal Verco and his doll Ginger.

A special cake was made by Mrs. M. Lowman, laid and decorated in the shape of an open book.

A history of land development in Altona

Before we actually get on to the development of Altona itself, it is necessary to point out we have described Laverton's early history to such a degree...

Readers may think that describing Laverton's early history is out of the scope of this article but it must be remembered that about a third of the Estate is in the Altona City and is in the process of being developed by that body.

The names of the streets are quite typical of the period, the parks receiving the names of the then Royal family. The interesting feature to notice is the alphabetical order from east to west of the names of the north to south streets. Merton to Victoria streets are in our municipality.

ALTONA'S DEVELOPMENT

The Williamstown Advertiser of September 17th 1887 contained an article stating that 'Altona' had been bought by, yes, you guessed right, A. T. Clark, for development as a suburb. Gas and water were to be laid on.

During October the area was surveyed for subdivision. A statement appeared that Altona was to be a second margate, piers were to be built as well as a rail communication.

Our enterprising businessmen then floated a private company and the following prospectus appeared in the oft quoted paper on 12th November 1887.

ALTONA AND LAVERTON FREEHOLD AND INVESTMENT CO. — Capital £200,000 ($400,000) in 200,000 £1 shares. 2/6 on application 2/6 on allotment. Directors — Hon. A. T. Clark, chairman, Mr. David Munro of David Munro & Co. contractors, Hon. Henry Cuthbert M.L.C., W. H. Croker, Henry Hoyt, J. F. Hamilton J.P., F. R. Peel, D. Orr, Capt. George Beckett.

Bankers: The Commercial Bank of Australasia.

Solicitors: Messrs Cuthbert, Hamilton & Wynne, Gillot, Croker Snowdon & Co.

Surveyors: Messrs Brufford & Braim, Munro.

Secretary: Colonial Mutual Chamber, Collins Street West. Matthew J. Smith.

Purpose: to acquire that land for subdivision and sale that land known as the Altona and Laverton Bay Estates consisting of about 2720 acres — close to Newport. Over the last three years numerous offers were made for the land, it was only about one month ago that Joseph Phelps, living in Ireland negotiated for a sale, sold for £165,000 ($330,000) or 5/- per foot. After area lost for streets is estimated by judges that the first 600 acres near beach will realise £300 per acre or £180,000 ($360,000) and cover cost of purchase expenses.

LAND

The remaining 2,150 acres are expected to obtain £150 ($300) per acre or £322,000 ($644,000).

Two and a half miles of the estate fronts onto Laverton Bay. The beach consists of a hard shady natural beach flanked with a belt of best pines and other shrubs. Further areas are planted with shrubs.

There is a frontage of 2 miles to the Geelong railway.

Portion of the Estate consists of rich loamy soil the great part laid down with lucern and english grasses ample quantities of bluestone (1), white clay, a limestone ridge, therefore possessing natural advantages for home building.

Only six miles from Port Melbourne by sea 20 ft. depth of water 800 ft. from high water mark. Largest excursion steamer will be able to berth with safety at the pier the promoters intend to build. The beach is suitable for sea baths.

A railway station is to be built on the Geelong line at a site, to be fixed. The estate is only nine miles from the city. The Homestead consists of a commodious and substantial stone house with large garden, stables and every convenience, able to be converted into a coffee palace or spacious family hotel.

Good view from all over estate, therefore Altona will become the margate of Australia.

In December 1887 tenders were called for a line of railway to the beach at Laverton Bay. Tenders were advised to close Friday 13th January 1888. Extended to the 22nd of the same month.

Written by ALLAN J. CLARK, Hon. Secretary of the Altona Historical Society.

During January and February a water main was laid on to the estate. In March an announcement was made that the first land sale was to take place on Saturday May 5. Two weeks later David Munro and Co. was announced as the firm to build the railway to Altona and that the line was to continue on and rejoin the Geelong railway, forming a loop.

The next week a proclamation was made that May 5, 12, 19 and 26 were to be the days of land sales at 'Altona'. However within a week of the announcement A. T. Clark sold the estate to another syndicate for £180,000 ($360,000).

The former syndicate made £95,000 on the deal stated the "Advertiser." At the age of 43 Mr. Clark seemed on top of the world having made his fortune from the deal, however just over two months later he died at sea on his way to visit England.

Without going into another long prospectus (copies of which are on display). It stated that on March 12th John Blyth, David Munro, James Sives Hosie, Henry Upton Alcock, William H. Perryman and Ross K. McCartney contracted to buy "Altona" of 2664 acres, 26 perches, or thereabouts from A. T. Clark's syndicate for the sum quoted.

These six men then on 7/7/1888 formed the "Altona Bay Estate Co. Ltd." with £300,000 ($600,000) capital divided into 6 equal shares.

Before we go any further let us examine the six men who were to lay out Altona as we know it today.

JOHN BLYTH

First of all the leader seemed to be John Blyth. — Born in Scotland about 1824, went to California in the late 1840's to try his luck digging for gold.

He came to Melbourne in 1852 and in early 1860's founded the firm of MacFarlane, Blyth & Co. (afterwards J. Blyth & Co.) agents for the Loch Shipping Line.

In public life — president of the Melbourne Harbor Trust, a term as President of the Royal Agricultural Society and connected with the Chamber of Manufacturers. He died at "Blythwood" Lilydale on 24.12.1909.

David Munro: — We have not got a life history of this man, but what we know is that he was a proprietor of an Engineering firm bearing his name and that he built some of the bridges that still span the Yarra in Melbourne today.

He built the Altona railway, and being a member of L. T. Clark's first Land Syndicate probably helped to lay out the township of Altona.

He became a member of Blyth's syndicate but sold out of the group soon after the land boom crash.

James Sives Hosie: — He arrived in Victoria in January 1853 from Leith, Scotland, a bootmaker by trade. He and his father opened a pie shop in Bourke Street and with this and other shops and hotels including the famous "Hosies" on the corner of Flinders St. and Elizabeth Street.

Hosie made his fortune, however his association with the Altona syndicate almost broke him and he had to go back to his pie shop to earn a living. J. S. Hosie died in March 1900.

Henry Upton Alcock: — Was born in Ireland in 1823, came to Victoria in 1852 and immediately began manufacturing Bacatelle Tables.

BILL GRANT DIES

A member of one of Altona's pioneer families and the father of present Altona Mayor (Cr. Doug Grant) passed away at the Altona Hospital last Monday.

He was Bill Grant, 78, or 86 Queen Street, Altona, who first came to Altona in 1912.

Mr. Grant was rushed to hospital last Saturday in a coma after suffering a cerebral haemorrhage. He did not regain consciousness.

His wife, Mrs. Jessie Grant, who has been in ill health over the past few years, suffered a stroke at the news of his death and is at present at Footscray Hospital in a serious condition.

Mr. Grant was widely known in Altona as officer-in-charge of the Truganina Explosives Reserve, a position he held from 1912 until his retirement in 1957.

His father, Mr. Donald Grant, was at the Reserve before him, while his brother John is a former Altona Shire president.

His son Doug has been Mayor of the city since August.

Mr. Grant was also known as a sportsman. He is a life-member of Williamstown Football Club, for whom he played in 1910, and the Altona Bowling Club.

He also coached Werribee Football Club in 1920-21 and was associated with Altona Cricket Club as a player in its formation years.

Mr. Grant was also a member of the committee of Altona Hospital for some years.

He is survived by a daughter Jean (Mrs. Wallace) and sons George, Alan, Doug and Noel.

Mr. Grant's funeral will take place at the Western Suburbs Memorial Cemetery after a service at St. Eanswythe's tomorrow (Thursday).

LIFESAVERS SEEK MONEY TO BUY BOAT

Altona Lifesaving Club has launched an appeal for funds to buy a small motor boat

The boat will patrol along the sea front a few hundred yards off shore and go to the rescue of bathers in difficulties.

The boat will be of aluminium, equipped with a small motor, two-way radio and other safety equipment and will cost about $2000.

The lifesaving club needs money to buy the boat as its funds are depleted following the expenditure last year of over $500 for a new property and equipment room.

The club will write letters to the major industries in the Altona area and will run special efforts to raise the required amount.

Donations, may be forwarded to the club secretary, Box 35, Altona.

Altona has a sea front stretching from the Altona sports park to the old Explosives Pier, a distance of about three miles.

A shortage of senior club members enables the club to patrol only a stretch of about 400 yards near the club house.

A new-look tower being constructed as a Rotoract project, will enable lifesavers to keep a large area of water under surveillance but a boat is essential to rescue anyone more than 500 yards from the beach.

Last year, club members David Shanahan had to swim beyond the 400-yard reach of the reel and line to rescue a small girl who had drifted out to sea in a tyre tube.

A strong northerly was blowing and Mr. Shanahan

'Semi-detached' a roaring success

Audience participation proved Williamstown Little Theatre's recent production of Semi-Detached to be a roaring success:

The farce, by David Turner, was met with bouts of laughter as insurance salesman Fred Midway cunningly followed his belief that a family which preyed together stayed together.

The entire action took place one Sunday morning at Fred Midway's neat, respectable home in Dowlis, England.

An appearance of respectability was all-im-

Penleigh scholarship

Penleigh Girls' School again took off top honors in the Commonwealth Scholarship awards this year.

The Headmistress Mrs. M. Klen said form-four girls had exceeded last year's 33 per cent, scholarship wins in the form.

Awarded scholarships this year were Kaylene Bush, Cheryl Drake, Barbara Drummond, Dianne Law, Patricia King, Lesley Nelson and Sandra Morrow.

portant to Fred and his wife Hilda, who were consequently faced with the pressing problem of keeping up with the neighbors.

Fred's house was threatened with disaster one Sunday when the love lives of his three children came to a simultaneous crisis. He needed all his ingenious cunning to put things in order.

Fred was effectively portrayed by Les Terrill, who was in full control of his demanding part at all times.

Exaggerated changes in facial expressions made the figure of Fred a masterpiece.

Irene Stephenson (Hilda) portrayed her part as the doting wife well. Irene looked truly bewildered when Hilda was unable to grasp what was going on.

This was typified by her innocent query about which club her son Tom (Kelvin Harman) had put his girlfriend Daphney in.

In fact Daphney was pregnant.

The play was action-packed, keeping the audience on its toes wondering what was coming next.

Scene one finished with the spoilt daughter Avril (Nola Finn) throwing a sudden and rather violent tantrum.

At the end of scene two almost the entire cast was on stage, each member shouting at another. This rapidly changed to false laughter to keep happy the neighbours who had been banging on walls.

Casting and performances were generally good. Other members of the cast were Eileen Midway (portrayed by Lesley Birks), Robert Freeman (Steven Moore), Nigel Hadfield (Peter Egan), Garnet Hadfield (Eileen Price) and Arnold Makepiece (Gary Metcalfe).

Director was Maggie McInnes.

Overall, a commendable performance.

LAPIDARY CLUB

A reminder for members of the Western Suburbs Lapidary Club that the Christmas party and annual break-up will be this Friday at 8 p.m., in the Sunshine City Band Hall, at the corner of Stanford and Wright Streets, Sunshine.

The gemstone display will be held in the Newport Library Hall, Mason Street, Newport, on Saturday and Sunday, January 23 and 24, 1971. Members are asked to come to the fore with their cases and to do as good a job, or better than at Windsor House.

This is an opportunity to help the senior citizens of Williamstown and Newport. There will be other attractions such as an opportunity table and competitions, etc. Refreshments will also be available.

For further information please ring the secretary on 311 5476.

YOUTH CENTRE

Break-up nights for Williamstown Youth Centre will follow Friday's dinner dance for the committee and senior members.

The dates have lost their shine

For the first New Year in more than 50 years, Williamstown residents won't be able to mark off each day on their Nugget calendars.

Mr. Frank Case, Manager at the Williamstown manufacturing division of Nugget, said he had been inundated with complaints since it had been made known that the calendars had gone out of production.

He had passed the complaints to the company's headquarters in Sydney, where the decision to stop printing the calendars had been made.

Mr. Case said he did not know why the calendar had gone out of production. He thought it might have been because the company had decided there were better ways of advertising the product.

Band recital

Altona North Technical School students will hold a Christmas band recital in the main Altona shopping centre on Saturday, December 12.

The recital will take the form of a public concert and will be given as a public service.

Altona council has given approval for the concert but has changed the location from outside the Commonwealth Bank to a nearby vacant allotment.

Loading zone requested

The licensee of the Victorian Inn Hotel in Douglas Parade has asked Williamstown Council to provide a vehicle loading zone in front of the hotel's bottle shop.

Council last week agreed to ask the Traffic Officer to report to the Traffic Committee on the request.

About 20 members of 2nd Commando Company were practising raid techniques from the Oberon class submarine HMAS Otway.

• Little athletics Another treble to Westona star

Stephen Smith of Westona Little Athletics Club again secured a treble in winning all events set down for the under 9 boy competitors at the Altona inter club meeting at Grant Reserve on Saturday.

Saturday's meeting was also highlighted by the close times of competitors in the girls under 11 — 100 metres events.

Only five tenths of a second separated the times obtained by the winners of the six heats contested, in which the fastest time was that of C. Jackson (St. Mary's) 16.4 secs., and the slowest heat was that of D. Sullivan (Altona North) which was run in the smart time of 16.9 secs.

These times compare favorably with the Victorian record for this event (13.2 secs.).

Excellent performances were also recorded by L. Lokaj (Altona North) who jumped 92 centimetres in the girls under 9 high jump. J. Rice (Westona) who jumped 7 metres 18 in the girls under 10 triple jump, and L. Clement (Altona North) who hurled the discus 27.30 metres in the girls under 13 event.

N. Condon (Seaholme) set a new centre record when hurling the discus 23.32 metres in the boys under 10 event, whilst G. Ware (Altona North) leaped 1.24 metres in the boys' under 12 high jump event.

Altona batsmen fail in chase

The Altona bats failed in a dour struggle to overhaul Brunswick United's 222 in the last day's play at the weekend.

Altona resumed at 0/1 and was hampered by long grass which made boundary chances difficult.

McCulloch and Courtot started quietly but safely until Courtot was caught in slips attempting to hook with the score at 10.

Paone joined McCulloch, but in the next over McCulloch was bowled and Altona was in trouble at two wickets down for 10 runs.

Page joined Paone and things started to improve. These two took the score along quietly to 57 when Paone was bowled for a patiently made 13 runs.

Page was looking the goods with 34 not out and with a strong batting line-up still to come, the Altona camp was confident.

The incoming batsman was David Hitchcock who added only two runs before he found a thick edge and was caught in slips, with the score at 64.

Hansen joined Page and at tea these two had confidently taken the score to 4/95, thus leaving Altona two hours to make 127, a task which seemed quite possible with a little bit of aggression.

The score moved along to 122 when the fifth wicket and vital wicket of Page fell.

Page made an excellent 66 runs and one wonders where Altona would have been bar for his brilliant knock.

Newcomer to the A grade side, Alec Merrill joined Hansen who was now 31 not out and playing a good captain's game.

However, only four more runs were added when Kenny Hansen surprisingly gave his wicket away, trying to hit one out of the ground and was caught behind for a well-made 35 runs.

Mick Oram joined Alec Merrill who was starting to settle down and these two put on a lively 21-run partnership before Oram foolishly allowed himself to be bowled for 10 runs.

Duff, the last recognised batsman, joined Merrill to try and boost the score.

But with the score at 163 the eight wicket fell when Merrill spooned a drive to mid-off and was caught for 23.

Still needing 60 runs for victory and with about 50 minutes to play, Altona's task looked difficult.

Colin Shaw joined "Duffy" and was bowled for no score. Bobby Dane, quietly confident of this batting prowess, joined Ken Duff who was now four not out.

After adding two more runs, Dave was caught in slips and Altona was all out for a total of 166 runs, thus losing by 56 runs.

Once again too much was left to the likes of Page and Hansen, and if Altona is to have a successful season more players will need to make runs more often.

However this was probably Altona's best performance for the year and augers well for ensuing games.

Club XI

In an exciting game, Altona Club XI failed by 13 runs to trail an outright victory after trailing on the first innings.

The game ended in a first innings win to powerhouse.

C Grade

Resuming at 5/65 on a rain-affected wicket, North Carlton appeared to be in little trouble with the wicket slow and easy, until Altona C grade's Bruce Forrester broke through with a vital wicket.

The game was tight and Frank Kirk bowling from one end, was able to contain the batsmen by keeping the ball on a nagging length.

Brian Gare, fielding at silly mid-on, was able to hold an excellent catch and with the score at 7 for 95 in reply to Altona's 130, the game was still in the balance.
